INTRODUCTION.

It seems rather a strange irony that a city so noted for its wickedness as Chicago should have within its immediate vicinity more theological seminaries than any other city in this country, if not in the world. Seven well-known denominations are represented, and the city therefore affords unusual opportunities for studying types of theological seminary libraries.

The seminaries are:

Baptist. Divinity school of the University of Chicago.

Library in Haskell Museum in the University grounds on the Midway Plaisance.

Congregational. Chicago Theological Seminary. Library-

Harmon library, Corner Warren Avenue and Ashland Boulevard.

Episcopal. Western Theological Seminary. Library in main seminary building, 1113 Washington Boulevard.

Evangelical Lutheran. Theological Seminary of the Evangelical Lutheran church. Library in Seminary building, 1311 Sheffield Avenue.

German Lutheran. 435 North Ashland Avenue.

Methodist. Garrett Biblical Institute. Department of Theology of Northwestern University. Library in Institute building on University grounds, Evanston.

Presbyterian. McCormick Theological Seminary. Library, Virginia library, 326 Belden Avenue.

These libraries have all been visited and with the courteous assistance of the librarians the facts for the following descriptions have been prepared.

The different departments of the work have been taken up in the following order:--

Building.

Founding and History.

Funds.

Increase per annum.

Present size.

Order department.

Accession.

Classification.

Catalog.

Shelf list.

Charging system.

Inventory.

Rules.

Collections.

Staff.

The collection of the American Bible Union was given in 1885 by Dr. T. M. Colwell of Lowell, Massachusetts and included about five thousand volumes collected by Dr. T. J. Conant while he was translating the Bible. It is considered the best translation collection in existence, and is frequently spoken of as the Colwell library of the American Bible Union.

FUNDS. There are eight different funds for the divinity library, namely:--

- Scientific languages
- Systematic theology,
- Homiletics
- New Testament
- Comparative religions
- Church history
- Egyptology.
- Haskell (General.)

As the funds are appropriated by the trustees each year, no definite sum can be named as the annual income.

RATE OF INCREASE. With these united funds about five hundred to seven hundred new books are bought each year.

SIZE. There are eight thousand five hundred volumes now in the library. This figure should be explained, as many more books than this were brought in from Morgan Park. Books naturally belonging to others of the departmental libraries of the university were taken from this collection and only the theological books and such as distinctly belong to a divinity library were retained in this department.

ORDER. The heads of the departments in the divinity school send in recommendations for books, and these are ordered by the librarian of the university after referring to the record of available funds.

is use .

ACCESSION. The A.L.A. standard accession books are all accessioned at the general library.

CLASSIFICATION. The classification is according to the Dewey system somewhat modified.

CATALOG. There is an author card catalog in which the imprint is not very full.

There are also two very interesting special catalogs. One is Professor Hengstenberg's catalog of his library in his own handwriting. It consists of two separate lists, an alphabetical author catalog and a subject index in blank books. The annotations are very full.

The other special catalog is one of the American Bible Union library made by Mrs. Zella Allen Dixon, while she was the librarian of the Baptist Union Theological Seminary out at Morgan Park. It is a classed catalog and arranged by accession under the several classes. There are very full descriptive notes. This is a printed pamphlet and may be seen at the general library.

SHELF LIST. There is no shelf list.

CHARGING SYSTEM. The library is intended merely as a reference library. However, permits for specified time are issued by the professors. ( Sample 1, page 13.) These are filed alphabetically by authors as charges at the attendant's desk .

Books taken out over night are charged in a blank-book and must be returned by half past nine, the next morning.

There is a fine of fifteen cents for all books kept out over time.

INVENTORY. The inventory is taken by taking the accession numbers from the books on the shelves and then checking them in books prepared for the purpose in the general library. These books have the accession numbers written down in columns with squares after them so that the records for several years may be kept in one book. Any numbers not checked in these books are then looked up in the accession books and all available records.

RULES. ( Taken from the report of the librarian in the report of the Presidents of the University, July 1897--98 p.165-7 )

The departmental libraries shall be regarded as reference libraries, and books may be drawn from them only under special conditions.

There shall be the same general plan for the administration of all departmental libraries and for the use of books in these libraries.

Departmental libraries shall be closed at 6 P.M. and shall not be open during the evening, except to those to whom special permission has been granted by the departmental adviser.

Books may be drawn from a departmental library with the approval of the head or acting head, of the department, provided the request for withdrawal be presented to the attendant in charge during the hours specified by that department, and provided the books be returned promptly the following morning before 9:30 A.M. Books may be withdrawn or returned at hours other than those specified. A fine of fifteen cents will be imposed for each failure to return books at the hour designated.

These regulations shall govern officers of instruction in the university as well as students.

COLLECTIONS. The Langstenberg collection while it is a general library, is especially strong in theology. It contains the best collection of works on the Anabaptists in existence and scholars come from abroad to study this.

The American Bible Union collection consists of nearly five thousand volumes gathered by Dr. Conant almost without thought of cost, to trace the progress of Biblical erudition, Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish. Many of the books are from the VanVoorst library in Amsterdam, a library representing the best accumulation of two centuries.

Each book is very rare and valuable and scholars sometimes come here to find books and helps for which they have searched in vain in the British Museum.

Some of the books are still left by courtesy with Dr. Conant's family but they belong to the University and will come to it in time.

The outline of the classes, showing the marvelous scope of the collection, as given in Mrs. Dixon's catalog, is as follows:-

Taking up a few of the most rare bibles with notes from Mrs. Dixon's catalog and from an article from her in the Chicago Standard, there are:--

HEBREW BIBLES.

Biblia Hebraica Bombergiana secundo impressa benettis 1521 by the foremost Hebrew printer of the 16th century, in its original binding and beautiful type.

Hebraica Biblia Latina planctue novae Sebast. Munsteri translatione Editio secunda Basiliae 1546. Munster was assisted by a learned Jew in editing this Bible which was compared with all other Hebrew texts within reach.

Biblia Hebraica, curis Josephi Athias et aliorum curiosior, Judeorum, Amsterdam 1667. Horne says of this book, "It is a rare edition of a most beautifully executed Bible, the first Hebrew Bible in which the verses are designated by numbers. Athias, the publisher and printer was presented with a gold chain and medal by the States-General of Holland as a reward for this work."

GREEK BIBLES.

Novum D.N. Jesu Christi Testamentum a Theodora Beza verum 1560. Four Beza editions of the New Testament, much consulted by the editors of the King James version, in difficult passages.

Johannes Draconites Proverbia Salomonis 1564, taken from the Biblia Pentapla. This gives the Hebrew text with Chaldee, Greek, Latin and German translations arranged in vertical columns parallel with the Hebrew.

LATIN BIBLES.

Probens Bible 1491.

A remarkably fine copy.

Koberger Bible

Two copies

Biblia Vulgata 1520

Johannes Marion

Many Latin Bibles in fine royal bindings with wonderful tooling, profusely illustrated.

GERMAN BIBLES.

Die Bibel in Deutschen, Augsburg 1478. Known in bibliography as the Fifth German Bible translated from the Latin vulgate over fifty years before Luther's Bible. It is printed partly in block and partly in movable type. The initials are wood-cuts and there are many quaint illustrations. It is very carefully collated, in one place a line is added in ink, and in another a slip is inserted bearing the correction. The binding is very beautiful and there are signs of clasps and a book chain. It was probably chained to a book block in some large German church.

LUTHER BIBLE

Three copies.

FRENCH BIBLE

Le Nouveau Testament 1545.

ITALIAN

La Bibbia 1807

Diodati's Italian version, original edition.

ENGLISH BIBLES.

Many early versions in the best and rarest editions.

Wycliffes Bible-- Old and New Testament and Apocryphal books. First printed in Oxford 1850 from the surviving manuscript which was translated by Wycliffe from the Latin Vulgate.

Tyndall's New Testament London 1836.

Coverdale's Holy Scriptures.

Rare second edition.

Coverdale Bible

Zurich edition.

Matthews' Bible 1549

Third English Bible and the foundation of the King
James version.

Taverners Bible 1539

Oran<sup>e</sup>r Bible 1549

First edition

Another copy containing his prologue which is missing in the first.

Genevan Bible 1557

Genevan Bible 1560

<sup>e</sup>
Breches Bible 1611

Bishop's Bible 1578

A very rare and costly edition

Bishop's Bibles

Two very imperfect copies.

Genevan New Testament 1557

Fac simile reprint.

Rhemish and Douay Bible 159.

Holy Bible

Fine editions of 1611, 1613, 1615, 1634, 1793, & 1841.

All the rare books of the Haskell library and in fact of the whole University library are kept in a locked room in the basement of Haskell Museum, as that is the most completely fire-proof building on the campus.

The library is fortunate in being placed in the Haskell Museum as that embraces a remarkably fine collection of Egyptology and Assyriology which is of great value to the students in Old Testament study.

PERIODICALS.

The library takes about one hundred and fifty periodicals . The reason for this large number is that they have the exchange from the Biblical World, American Journal of Theology and American Journal of Semitic languages. About one hundred and twenty-five of the periodicals come as exchanges and twenty-five are purchased. The Literary Digest and Review of Reviews are taken as general magazines and the rest are either Theological or belong to some department of the divinity school. On page 4<sup>is</sup> a list of periodicals received at the university with those for Haskell marked.

STAFF.

HAMMOND LIBRARY.

CARPENTER HALL AND CHAPEL.

HAMMOND LIBRARY.

BUILDING.

Hammond library is a fire-proof brick building, the gift of Colonel Charles G. Hammond, one of Chicago's early residents who was closely interested in the founding and maintenance of many of the well established charities and benevolent institutions of the city.

The building cost Thirty-four thousand Dollars($34000.00) and has an ultimate capacity of fifty thousand volumes. Mr. Norman Patton of the firm of Patton and Fisher, so well known in library designing, was the architect. But as this building was erected in 1882--83 Mr. Patton had only begun on his library architecture and this plan is not so successful as his more recent ones. Since Mr. Patton finished it, also, it has been divided off into alcoves, leaving no room for administration and wasting much space.

The librarian's desk is in the alcove directly opposite the entrance and the card catalog is in the same alcove.

The second floor is one large room, reaching to the rafters and lighted from the front, back and a skylight. In this room now are the Congregational exhibit from the World's Fair recognized anywhere by the typical exhibit canopy removed intact, and a large collection of duplicates and gifts made years ago and stored here before there was a regular librarian. No doubt there is much valuable material here, but for lack of funds to secure assistants it has been impossible to properly classify and catalog them.

There is a reading room across the street from the library, in Fish Hall, where most of the students room. Here are the leading Chicago and New York dailies and the religious weeklies of several different denominations. This room is open at all hours.

FOUNDING AND HISTORY.

The library was started in 1856 by the gift of the library of Reverend George W. Perkins, valued at Five Hundred Dollars. Since then there has been gifts of both money and books. (Sample 2, page 28.)

FUNDS.

There are now in endowments for books Forty-four Thousand Five Hundred Dollars. These are not yet all productive but when they are there will be about Seventeen Hundred Dollars available annually for the purchase of books. There are now about One Thousand Two Hundred Dollars.

Of this Forty-four Thousand Five Hundred Dollars, One Thousand is the Patton binding fund given originally to bind The Advance, a weekly paper of the Congregational churches, published in Chicago, but after the Advance is bound, the rest of the annual income may be used for any binding which the library needs. ( Sample 4 page 29.)

Aside from this there is no endowment at all for library administration.

INCREASE PER ANNUM.

From One Thousand to One Thousand Two Hundred books are added to the library annually, by gift or purchase.

SIZE.

There are about Nineteen Thousand volumes in the library at present.

ORDER.

The Library Bureau Order cards are used and a book committee of the professors makes out the lists of books desired.

ACCESSION.

Accessions are recorded in the A.L.A. Standard accession book.

CLASSIFICATION.

The classification is on the general plan of the Dewey system, but very much modified by the present librarian, Mr. Gates.

The outline is as follows:-

0 General works

100 Exegetical theology, the Bible

200 Historical theology

300 Missionary intelligence

400 Philosophy

one

This class is subdivided according to the hundreds in the Dewey system, the alphabetical arrangement dominating the chronological.

500 Apologetics: doctrinal, ecclesiastical, practical, and ethical theology.

600 Sociology

Arranged according to Dewey 200

700 Philology

According to Dewey, 400, with the exception that Greek philology is put with New Testament exegesis under 100.

800 Natural Science

According to Dewey--500

900 General literature

According to Dewey--800

II. Useful arts

According to Dewey--600

V. Fine arts

According to Dewey--700

There are very few books in this library in these last two classes. The letter is used instead of the first figure of the number.

110. New Testament and

120. Old Testament

Are treated exactly alike as to sub-heads, forming a mnemonic feature.

220. Patristics.

Other denominations besides Congregationalists are arranged alphabetically as--

22 A1

22 A2

using the first two letters of the class, combined with the initial of the denomination.

Church history is arranged according to the general scheme followed in the lectures of the professor of that department.

The Swedish and Danco-Norwegian books are designated by S. & D. prefixed to the class number.

CATALOG.

There is an author catalog on standard library bureau cards, giving the call number, author, title, place, date, volume, paging, size and accession number.

A subject catalog is being made which gives call number, subject, author, title and accession number. The catalogs are type-written.

SHELF LIST.

The shelf list is on index sized cards and gives call number, author, title, number of volumes, date and accession number.

CHARGING SYSTEM.

The charging system has both book and borrower's cards. The book cards ( sample 3 page.26.) are in the books when they are on the shelves, but when they are out the cards are filed first by date and second by call number. The name of the borrower is used in place of a borrower's number.

There are fourteen little trays, in which the book cards are kept. These trays move so that the one for the latest date is always in front.

The book card contains the number of the book at the top, and the name of the borrower and date of return below. The position of the tray shows the date of issue.

The borrower's cards ( See sample 5 page.26) are not standard size. They have the name and address at the top and the initials in the upper left-hand corner. There are columns for the number of the book, number of volumes, date of issue, date of return and fines. These are filed alphabetically whether they are in use or not.

A slip is pasted in the front of each circulating book, ( Sample.6. page.27) on which the date of issue is stamped, to serve the borrower as a reminder of the date the book is due.

There is another tray in which are four compartments,

1. For reference books.

There is a fine of Fifteen Cents a day if these are kept out after opening hours in the morning.

2. Cards for overdue books.

Books may be retained two weeks. ( Sample.7.128

3. For books drawn by the faculty or for any other reason unlimited as to time.

4. For charges for unbound periodicals made on temporary slips and filed alphabetically.

INVENTORY.

The library is closed each year in May, for a week just after Commencement, to take the inventory which is done by the shelf list.

RULES.

Printed rules are distributed to the students( Sample9.p.28

SPECIAL FEATURES.

The library has a binding book( Sample11.p30) planned by Mr.Gates, which has proved very convenient. The binding data, directions and form are all on one side of a sheet and the sheet below has the same form with lines of perforations so that a carbon paper can be put between the two, the order written and the lower form sent to the binder, while the original copy is kept as a permanent record.

When the professors wish any books reserved for reference, they pass in the list to the librarian on a printed form ( See sample 8.. Page.28.) and the books are reserved and slips ( See sample..10 Page..29.) are pasted into the fronts of the books over the regular circulating slips, to mark them as reference books for the time specified by the professor's order.

COLLECTIONS.

The library is a very well selected working library and there are also several special collections. The oldest is that on Egyptology. In 1875 Reverend E.M.Williams presented the library with a collection of works on this subject valued at One Thousand and Five Hundred Dollars.

Among these some of the finest are

Lepsius, C.R. Denkmäler aus Aegypten und Aethiopien 12v. Berlin.

v.1-2 Topographie und architecture.

v.3-4 Alter reich.

v.5-8 Neues reich

v.9 Aus der zeit der Griechischen and Romanischen herrschaft.

v.10 Aethiopische Denkmäler

v.11-12 Inschriften

Labarde, Leon de and Linant, Voyage de L'Arabie Petrie. Paris 1830 Very fully illustrated.

Le Mans, Conradus

Monumens Egyptiens 3 v. 1842--45

Place, Victor

Ninive and L'Assyrie. Paris 1867

The Gates alcove of Missionary intelligence, founded by the present librarian's father, has an endowment of Five Thousand Dollars and now contains about Two thousand works in all lines of missionary interest and comparative religions. This is a very valuable collection, the income from the endowment being sufficient to buy almost all desirable books in the special subjects.

Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus added to the library a fine collection of about two hundred books and pamphlets on the rise of Congregationalism, especially on the time of the Stuarts. This collection was made by Dr. Gunsaulus when he was writing some of his historical works.

The library contains a full set of the collections and proceedings of the Massachusetts Historical Society which is especially valuable as Congregationalism has been so intimately connected with Massachusetts history since the time of the Pilgrims.

Mr. Frederick Perry Noble Ph.D. the secretary of the African Congress at the time of the World's Fair, has presented the library with a very valuable collection of documents, including the papers and addresses given at that congress.

The library of the Illinois society of church history is at this seminary. This aims to be a complete record of all Congregational interests in Illinois. It includes many church manuals, books by Congregationalists, histories of local church, etc. The society has published one volume of papers.

In connection with the department of music there are standard works on music and hymnology and a collection of vocal music suitable for church choruses.

The library is fortunate in having facsimile copies of the three great codices, Vatican, Sinaitic and Alexandrian besides a few other less important ones.

There are also full sets of the ante and post Nicene fathers in both the originals and the best translations.

A fine marble bust of Colonel Hammond stands near the door.

There is a marble medallion of Dante, a cast of the Rosetta stone, a few fine pictures and some beautiful manuscripts, parchment rolls, etc.

The Congregational exhibit at the World's Fair, which received the prize for denominational exhibits, includes pictures of all the well-known colleges in the country started <sup>as</sup> by this denomination and it has been especially interested in education since the founding of Harvard in 1636. These pictures make no small collection. There are pictures of well-known Congregationalists, reports of the various benevolent societies of the denomination, and a chip of Plymouth

Book under an exact copy of the canopy at Plymouth, besides many other interesting relics showing the growth and strength of Congregationalism. This exhibit forms the nucleus of a small but growing museum of Christian antiquities.

Professor Samuel Ives Curtiss has recently given about Four Hundred coins, dating from the second century B.C. to the sixth century A.D. being Palestine, Jewish, Herodian and Roman coins. These were classified by Reverend Selah Merrill, United States Consul at Jerusalem. Professor Curtiss also brought home some antique lamps and images from the Holy Land.

PERIODICALS.

The library takes One Hundred and Ninety periodicals; about seventy-five of these are donated. There are fifty-two missionary publications and the others are exegetical, general, German, French and Assyriological.

STAFF.

The librarian is Mr. Herbert Wright Gates, a graduate of Amherst, of this seminary and later a fellow of the seminary in study both at home and abroad. There is one assistant in the library. ( See samples 12-19 pages. 31-33 for marks of ownership. )

*Chicago Theological Seminary,
March 12th, 1898.*

In 1856 the nucleus of the library was formed by the gift of the library of the Rev. Geo. W. Perkins, valued at $500. Gifts of books and money from other friends of the Seminary increased the collection until, in 1860, it numbered 1200 volumes.

In 1875 Rev. E. M. Williams presented the Seminary with a collection of works on Egyptology valued at $1500.

In 1879 Col. C. G. Hammond donated to the Seminary funds sufficient to enable them to erect the present library building, the corner stone of which was laid April 27th, 1882. This building, called the Hammond Library in honor of its donor, was completed and opened in December, 1883, at a cost of $34,000. The building is fire-proof throughout and has an ultimate capacity of about 50,000 volumes.

Endowment funds for the purchase of books have been donated as follows:

Geo. H. Wells Fund	10,000.00
John Blatchford Memorial Reference Library Fund	$10,000.00
Gates Alcove of Missionary Intelligence	5,000.00
Philo Carpenter Alcove Library Fund	5,000.00
*E. S. Jones Alcove Library Fund	5,000.00
J. T. Hyde Alcove Library Fund	1,000.00
Chas. Walker Library Fund	1,000.00
*S. M. Moore Library Fund	3,000.00
Alumni Library Fund	1,000.00
E. M. Williams Library Fund	2,500.00
Patton Binding Fund	1,000.00
	$34,500.00

When all of the above endowments become productive the library will have an income of about $1,700.00 per year for the purchase of books and periodicals.

Since 1865 when the first librarian was elected, the position has been held by the following persons: 1865-73, Prof. S. C. Bartlett, D. D.; 1873-75, Prof. Geo. N. Boardman, D. D.; 1875-77, Prof. Theodore W. Hopkins, A. M.; 1877-81, Prof. Geo. N. Boardman, D. D.; 1881-95, Prof. S. I. Curtiss, D. D.; 1895-96, Prof. E. T. Harper, Ph. D.; 1896-date, Herbert W. Gates, B. D.

(*Not productive at present.)

The growth of the library having called for more attention than could be given by any professor in addition to his other work, Mr. Gates, a graduate and fellow of the Seminary, was elected librarian in 1896 and has since given his entire time to this work.

During the last two years the library has been classified by subjects, an author catalogue has been prepared, and work upon a subject catalogue begun. During the same period the circulation of books has increased at least fourfold, while the use of the library for reference work has more than doubled.

The library now contains nearly 19,000 volumes, covering every branch of theological literature, to which additions are constantly being made.

The missionary alcove contains over 1,500 volumes, comprising works on the history of missions and works descriptive of mission lands and peoples, with their religions. Large additions are being made to this department, which already offers exceptional opportunities for special work on this topic. Members of missionary societies, or any who are interested in the subject, are cordially invited to make use of this department.

A valuable collection of books and pamphlets, illustrating the Rise of Congregationalism, the gift of Rev. F. W. Gunsaulus, D.D., will be of value to the student of this topic.

A Museum of Christian Antiquity has been started in connection with the library. The Congregational exhibit, which secured the highest medal at the World's Columbian Exposition, forms a valuable nucleus. It is hoped that this collection may be enlarged to cover the field of the Church Universal.

With all this growth in size and importance to the Seminary and its friends, the Library is entirely without endowment for administration purposes. Its future development must depend upon the provision that is made for such endowment. Sixty thousand dollars is needed as an endowment fund to provide the salaries and equipment necessary for its proper administration.

WESTERN THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY.

BUILDING.

The library of the Western Theological Seminary is on the second floor of the main building, in a large room planned for the purpose.

There are high windows along the west side and at the south end of the room is a beautiful stained glass window with portraits of Bishops White and Seabury in the glass.

The card catalog is near the entrance and at the other end beneath the large window is a reading table. The books are arranged in floor cases and there is one locked case with glass doors for rare works.

FOUNDING.

When the seminary was founded in 1885 they were fortunate in having money instead of books given for the library, so that with Seven Thousand Dollars to start on, they bought a very well selected working library.

FUNDS.

regular

There is no endowment or appropriation, so nothing certain can be counted upon. An occasional appropriation is made for new books.

INCREASE.

No definite statement can be made as to increase.

SIZE.

The library now numbers about Four Thousand volumes.

ORDER.

The new books are chosen by the professors and there is no elaborate order system.

ACCESSION.

The A.L.A. standard accession book is used.

CLASSIFICATION.

The library is being reclassified according to the Dewey System.

CATALOG.

An author catalog is being made on standard size cards, which gives author, title, date, binding, pages and source. It is in a Library Bureau case.

SHELF LIST.

An old author card catalog has been converted into a shelf list to serve till a new one can be made.

CHARGING SYSTEM.

Books are charged by writing the name of the borrower, date of issue and title of the book on a slip of paper which is dropped into a box prepared for the purpose. These are filed by borrower's name. When the book is returned another slip stating the fact is put in the box and the librarian destroys the first slip.

INVENTORY.

Books are all called in once a year, in May, and an inventory taken.

RULES.

The library is open all the time. There is free access to the shelves and much of the time no attendant is there. Any book but the reference and rare books may be taken from the room and yet not more than Fifteen Dollars worth of books have been lost in fifteen years. Books may be kept out four weeks.

COLLECTIONS.

Upon the practical closing of Jubilee College at Robin's Nest, Illinois, the seminary library received as a permanent loan about Nine Hundred volumes, or all for which they cared, of the College library.

This college was founded by Bishop Chase and the books were given to him in England sixty years ago. There are some fine old ones. For example:-

Baronius' Annals, 13v, Venice, 1738.

Canons Apostolorum., 1525

Black letter edition of St. Thomas Aquinas, on the Epistles of St. Paul, 1495.

Among other rarities are the Standard Prayer Book edition of 1892, one of the first fifty published. The prayer book of the Confederate States of America, Richmond, 1863. Of course, the only change in this is that Confederate States are supplemented for United States, but it is both interesting and curious to observe that in <sup>that</sup> southern town in that year when every type-setter and proof reader would have been expected to notice it, the prayer to be used by the navy at sea, crept in unaltered, so that if they had had much chance to use <sup>a</sup> much prayer any way, they would have prayed for strength to uphold the United States of America.

The marquis of The Roman breviary of Gute, Blackwood, 1879. This is quite a recent book but already very rare.

There is a special liturgical collection which is quite complete and very valuable. Among these is the Codex liturgicus by Asseranus, Rome, 1752.

PERIODICALS.

The library has from fifteen to twenty periodicals, including theological reviews, church newspapers and two secular reviews.

STAFF.

Reverend Francis J. Hall, a professor in the seminary, is the librarian and is much interested in the new catalog and classification but as he must do it all himself and has his duties connected with his professorship beside, the work of course goes very slowly.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY.

BUILDING.

The library of the Evangelical Lutheran seminary is in a room on the fourth floor of the seminary building.

There are wall and floor cases, a table for readers and a small table for the attendant. The card catalog case stands at the end of the reading table.

FOUNDING.

The library was founded about seven years ago by gifts, individual and from the churches of that denomination.

FUNDS.

There is no regular fund but the seminary had made an arrangement with a publishing house, by which it is given an agent's percentage for all books sold through the seminary.

INCREASE.

By this percentage system they secure about two hundred new books a year.

SIZE.

There were in January 1900, Four Thousand Three Hundred Nine books accessioned.

ORDER.

The professors make out the lists of books desired. No regular order blanks are used.

ACCESSION.

The A.L.A. Standard accession book is used.

CLASSIFICATION.

The books are classified according to an outline of all theological matter, in volume three of a "Theological Encyclopedia" 1891. by Professor J. J. Veinier D.D. D.D.D. of the seminary.

The five general heads are:

1. Introduction
2. Hermeneutics
3. Historical Theology
4. Systematic theology

Apologetics

Dogmatics

5. Practical theology

Under these heads the arrangement is encyclopaedic.

The notation is first by letter and then by figures.

(See sample 20742)

CATALOG.

The catalog is by authors on standard sized cards, in a Library bureau case. It gives full author's name, title and imprint.

SHELF LIST. There is no shelf list.

CHARGING SYSTEM.

The charging system is in a blank book arranged alphabetically with a page for each student, giving student's name, date of issue, name of book and date of return.

INVENTORY. The inventory is taken about once a year by checking the accession book.

RULES.

The library is open all the time. There is not always an attendant there but students are allowed to take books and charge them in the blank book. When the books are returned they are left on the table and the librarian discharges them and returns them to the shelves.

The rule is that books may be kept two weeks, but this is not strictly followed as there are only thirty-three students and as the library is in the building in which they live, so that the books can be easily called in, it is used more as a reference library than a lending library.

COLLECTIONS.

The books form a well selected working library. There are a few rare old books. The finest is the Magdeburg Centuries, Basle, 1560--1574. First edition, five volumes. No publisher is named.

There are some old Lutheran theologians of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries represented. The finest of these is a volume "Theologia didactica Polonica", by Quenstedt, Wittenberg, 1696, publisher not given.

There are also some old Bibles, church histories, etc. but nothing very rare.

PERIODICALS.

There is a reading room in the basement of the seminary building where there are about one hundred periodicals, many of them exchanged for the Seminary record, their own publication. Most of these are religious, denominational and missionary.

The North American Review, The Review of Reviews, Scribners', Literary Digest, Chicago daily papers, etc., are paid for by the students, who have formed a library club.

STAFF.

Professor F.W.H. Frederick of the seminary is the librarian, and Mr.K.C.Eittrein, assistant librarian. There are two student assistants who give about six hours each, a week, or as much time as is necessary to keep the books in order.

Professor Frederick has general oversight, but as he has his regular duties connected with his professorship beside, the assistants do most of the actual work.

GERMAN LUTHERAN THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY.

CHICAGO.

The library of the seminary of the German Lutheran church in Chicago contains about Two Thousand Three Hundred volumes. It is made up from the libraries of eight or more deceased clergymen.

Professor J.D. LeVeringham of that seminary described it as a good working library, but too small to need any catalog or classification.

It was impossible to gather any further data.

GARRETT BIBLICAL INSTITUTE

Note. Some points in the following description of the Garrett Biblical Institute are incomplete, as the final data came too late to be inserted. L.B.I.W.

BUILDING.

Garrett Biblical Institute is a handsome, modern, red brick building. The library is on the first floor and consists of three rooms. ( Plan page.43 ) The entrance is into a large main room where the books are kept.

There are floor and wall cases, and pictures and busts above these, making a very attractive room. The loan desk is right opposite the door as one enters, and off to the left is the large administration table, where accessioning and cataloging are done.

On the right is the reading room, where are the card catalog case, a long reading table, and a case for current periodicals.

Behind the reading room, and on the same side of the main library room, is a smaller one where rare books and the Deering-Jackson Wesleyana collection are kept.

FOUNDING. The library was started by gifts.

FUNDS.

The only regular fund is an alumni fund which yields about Four Hundred Dollars a year. Besides this the registration fees of the students add about One Hundred and Fifty Dollars, making in all about Five Hundred and Fifty Dollars available for library purposes.

From Three Hundred and Fifty to Four Hundred volumes are purchased annually.

SIZE. The present size of the library is Twelve Thousand and Three Hundred volumes.

ORDER.

The professors send in suggestions for new books, and there is no special system about the ordering.

ACCESSION. The condensed (Library bureau) accession book is used.

CLASSIFICATION.

The classification is alphabetical according to a Biblical encyclopedia.

CATALOG.

A new card catalog is being made. It is a very minute dictionary catalog, by author, title, subject, and sometimes catch word, edition, place, date, number of volumes, and accession number are given as imprint.

SHELF LIST. There is no shelf list.

CHARGING SYSTEM.

The charging system is on cards. There are printed call slips ( Sample 21, 49) which are filed alphabetically by authors as book-cards and the borrowers cards are made from standard catalog cards. ( Sample 22 p. 49.)

Printed forms are used as call slips in the reading room. ( Sample 23. p. 49 )

COLLECTIONS.

The Deering-Jackson collection of Wesleyana, was begun by a Mr. Jackson of England, and was bought from him by Mr. Deering whose name is so well known in connection with the world-renowned reaper. Mr. Deering presented the collection to the institute and has since then continually added to it. He is always ready to buy any interesting piece of Wesleyana of which he may hear or which the institute may call to his attention.

The collection consists of books, pamphlets, busts, pictures, medallions and in fact anything which may be of interest as having any connection with the life of the great founder of the Methodist church.

One of the very interesting books is The Life and Times of Reverend John Wesley, London, 1870 by Reverend Luke Tyerman. There were originally only two volumes, but these have been taken apart and interleaved with many fine photographs illustrating the life and times of the great preacher, and the book is rebound in three very beautiful volumes.

There is a collection of Wesley's hymn-books, arranged chronologically, beginning with a manuscript copy of 1738, and coming down almost to the present.

All the pamphlets and writings of Wesley which could be found, are collected and carefully arranged, and form a very complete history of the first struggles and controversies of the Methodist church, for partiality is not shown and the attacks upon Wesley and his beliefs are almost as well represented as his own side of the question. Many of these

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. This will allow the business to track its legal status over time and identify areas for improvement. This will allow the business to track its communication over time and identify areas for improvement. This will allow the business to track its financial activity over time and identify areas for improvement.

old pamphlets are very anachronistic to our nineteenth century ideas, for the attacks from either side are in no gentle language.

There is a copy of the minutes of the annual meeting of the Methodist Episcopal church in America, Philadelphia, 1803. This was probably the first published report of a general official gathering of that church in this country. The General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in America was not formed till 1812.

Another especially interesting book is a form of discipline for the ministers, preachers and members of the Methodist Episcopal Church in America. 1784, printed in New York 1789

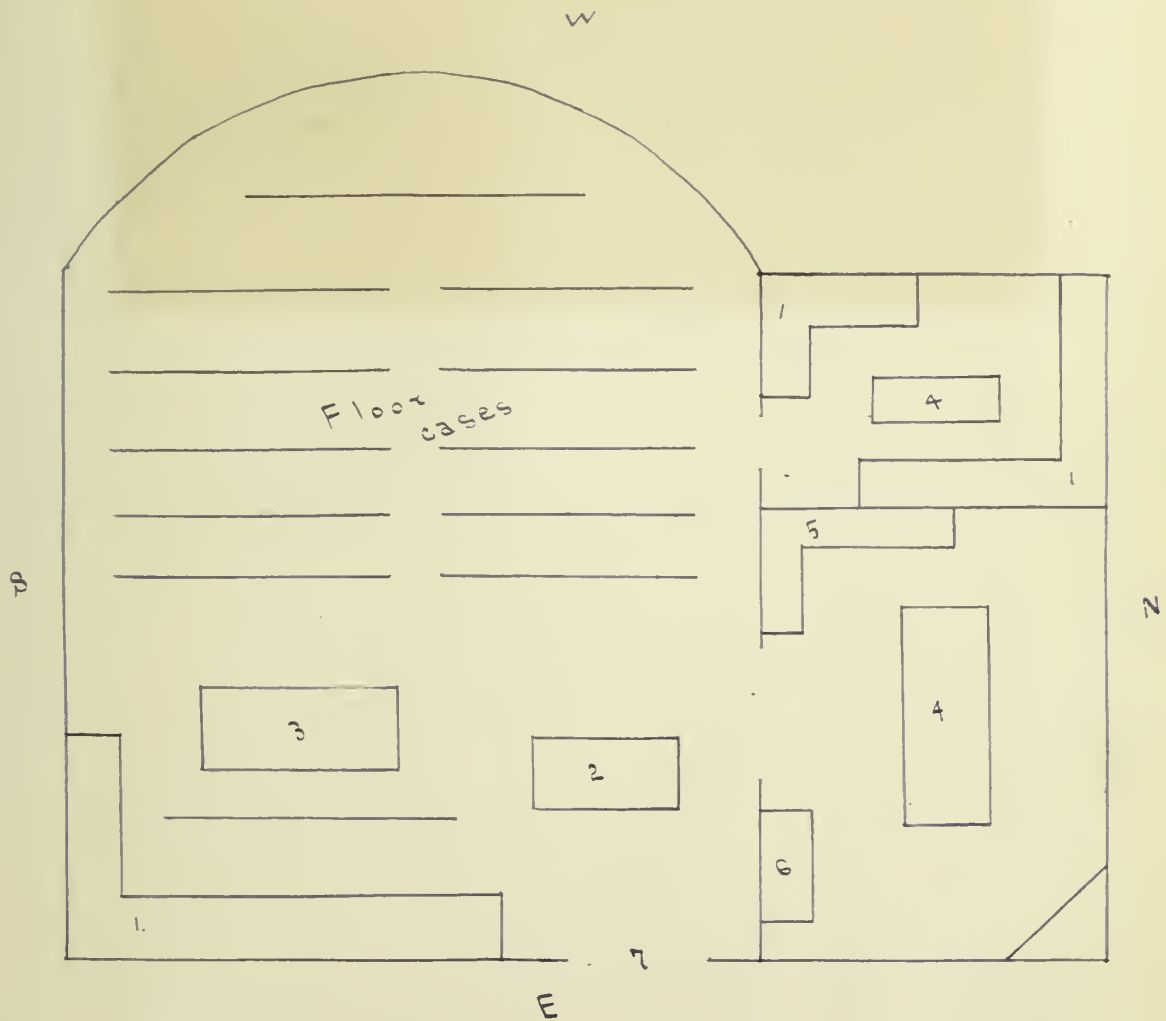

The Disciplines of the church are the rules formulated at each general conference for the government of the church, but they were evidently begun before there was any general conference in America. This discipline of 1784 was in all probability the first one issued in this country and from that time down, the library of Garrett Biblical Institute contains an almost complete set.

PERIODICALS. The library has the best theological magazines besides some of the general literary reviews.

STAFF. Mr. Zaring, a student in the institute, is the acting librarian, and he has some assistance in the work from other students.

VIRGINIA LIBRARY.

BUILDING.

The Virginia library is far more beautiful than the library building of any other theological seminary in Chicago. It was given by Mrs. Nettie Fowler McCormick and named in honor of her daughter, Miss Virginia McCormick.

The corner stone was laid in 1894 and the building dedicated in 1896. Shepley Rutan and Coolidge of Chicago, were the architects. The design, purely Grecian in type, is taken from the Erechtheum, a temple to Minerva at Athens. It is One Hundred and forty feet long by Fifty feet deep, and is built of smooth-faced blue Bedford limestone. The central portion is two stories, and the wings one story in height.

The entrance on the east side is a beautiful portico supported by four Ionic pillars, each one single stone as high as the two stories.

The large windows, each a single pane of plate glass, are narrower at the top than bottom in true Grecian style.

One enters a beautiful hall which has a Mosaic floor. Opposite the entrance, on the west side, are the stairs which lead to the one large trustees' room on the second floor.

At the right is the reading room, occupying the whole north wing of the building. The ceiling of this room has perhaps more decoration than any other one part of the building. It is very beautiful and rich in its coloring of faun color, blue, green and gold. It was said that Thirty Dollars worth of scraps of gold leaf was taken up from the floor after the decorating was completed.

At the end of this room is a beautiful fire-place. There are cases each side of this for periodicals and newspapers, and around the walls beneath the windows are the shelves for the reference books. In the centre of the room is a very fine relief map of Palestine about ten by four feet in size, issued by the Palestine Exploration fund in 1894. There are long tables for readers.

On the left of the main hall as one enters, are the loan desk, administration room and stack, the latter occupying the entire south wing.

The interior finish is dark oak except the loan desk and catalog cases and woodwork immediately surrounding, which are mahogany.

The building has a capacity of fifty thousand volumes.

FOUNDING AND HISTORY.

The library may be said to date from the founding of the seminary in 1860. Prior to the opening of this new building the library was housed in a dark unattractive room in Ewing hall, the oldest seminary building..

FUNDS.

There is no regular endowment, and no stated fund for support, but Mrs. McCormick is very generous in her interest and aid, and has given much for both books and administration.

INCREASE PER ANNUM.

As there is no fixed income there can be no general statement of the increase per year.

SIZE.. The present size is about twenty thousand volumes.

ORDER.

There is no regular order system of ordering. The professors generally hand to the librarian the names of books which they desire.

ACCESSION.

The accession book is a ruled blank book, but the items kept are almost identical with those kept in the A.L.A. Standard accession book.

CLASSIFICATION.

The classification is modified from the Princeton theological seminary catalog, according to suggestions from the professors. It is a fixed location arranged on the basis of Two Hundred Thousand volumes.

The five main heads are:-

- A. Bibliography
- B. Theology
- C. Philosophy, political economy, science, fine arts, useful arts.
- D. Biography, geography, travel and history.
- E. Philology and belles-lettres.

These are subdivided by subject, not alphabetically arranged. Under B are the different versions of the Bible taken up under versions of the whole Bible, of the Old Testament and of the New Testament.

The notation is by letters and numbers.

CATALOG.

There are an author and a subject card catalog on standard sized cards, which are placed in handsome cases each side of the loan desk one for the subject and one for the author catalog. The trays can be drawn either way so that both staff and borrowers may easily use the same catalog.

The author catalog, on Library bureau ruled cards, gives author, title, all imprint but binding and source, and a very full indexing, or it might be called analyzing.

The subject catalog, ( See samples 25-29 p. 59-60. ) is divided under the five main heads, and under <sup>the</sup> these sub-heads are written on guides so that they stand up and can be easily seen. The subject catalog gives full imprint, and also full ordering items.

TEXT CATALOG.

One very interesting feature to any theological library is the index to sermon texts. The books of the Bible are taken up chronologically by book, chapter and verse, and after each verse are given the call numbers of all books containing sermons on that text. It is a very simple system and yet of great value to the students in their sermon writing, showing how the various great sermon writers have treated a given text.

SHELF LIST.

The subject catalog forms the shelf list as the cards follow the exact arrangement of the books on the shelves.

CHARGING SYSTEM.

There is a printed call slip. ( See sample 30p. 60 ) which is made out and presented and then filed as a charge by the name of the borrower.

Four books may be taken at a time and kept two weeks. When books are overdue notice ( See sample 31. 161 ) is sent through the local post office in one of the seminary buildings.

INVENTORY.

There is no stated time for taking inventory, but a report of the numbers of volumes in the library, and those received during the year, is submitted to the trustees in May.

RULES.

Students are only on rare occasions admitted to the stock but professors, of course have free access. Printed rules are issued to the students ( See sample <sup>32</sup>... 61. )

COLLECTIONS.

The library is a general working and reference collection. Professor E.C. Bissell bequeathed his library on Old Testament criticism and Exegesis to the seminary, and it is a valuable addition.

There are also the set of Early Fathers in Latin and Greek, valued at over One Thousand Dollars. There are One Hundred and Sixty One volumes of the Greek Father and Two Hundred and Twenty-one of the Latin Fathers.

The library has some fine old Bibles among them the Breches Bible, famous for its peculiar rendering of Genesis 3:7

There are also quite a collection of very interesting and rare looking books which the busy librarian has not yet been able to classify and catalog but which she hopes to make available.

8-60

PERIODICALS.

About Forty-five periodicals are taken. These are on Theology, philosophy and psychology and on general criticism such as the Nation and British Weekly.

STAFF. Miss Keta B. Parker is the librarian and she has one assistant. ( Book plate sample... page..61)

CONCLUSION.

The time spent in visiting these libraries has been more than repaid in the pleasure and profit gained from them. It has been an education to learn of the old and rare books and of the different methods of administration. Each library is very different from the others and has its own advantages but each well deserves study.

Leaving out the German Lutheran, as so little was learned about that, there are several points to note among the other six. Virginia library is rich in its beautiful building, so admirably planned for that type of library. Hammond is the only library which knows exactly upon what funds to count each year and Hammond has nothing for administration. It has more new books a year than any of the others, but in this connection we must remember that the students at Haskell have all the great University library at their disposal, and at Evanston, the Northwestern library, though not nearly so large, is very convenient. All but the Virginian library use the A.L.A. standard or the Condensed accession book and at Virginia, without knowing of the existence of such a book, very similar headings were made in a blank book, as another proof of the advisability of these subjects being recorded.

No libraries but that at Western Theological seminary use the Dewey Decimal classification without modifications. As this seems to point the fact that the Dewey classification is not adequate for a special theological library, it would be interesting to see the Cutter expansive classification applied to one of the libraries, since religion is said to be especially well worked out in that . It would seem practical to use the seventh scheme for religion and use one of the smaller <sup>schemes</sup> for all books on other subjects in the library.

It is unfortunate that three of the libraries have no subject catalogs at all, but Hammond is making one, Virginia has a very good one, and a very careful indexing in the author catalog and Garrett has a complete dictionary catalog in preparation.

Each library has some valuable rare books, and each takes a good many periodicals. Of course, many are duplicates, but they must be unique. In this day of inter-library loans, and just after that great Ecumenical council, when all the denominations of the Christian World united to study missions, would it not seem fitting if these six seminaries could help each other in sending to all others, lists of their periodicals and rare books, that students in one seminary might enjoy the advantage of the libraries of all?

If the time never comes when we shall have one great international classification, may it not come when libraries of one kind in a given community will unite, so that each may increase the usefulness of all the others?

" He who endows a library does more for civilization than a great preacher, for he inspires thousands of preachers. He should have his name set on high as those who built the old cathedrals. Those preserved the Holy Word. These preserve records and incentives not only to religion, but also to learning, civilization, science, peace among nations, and study of the secrets of earth and heaven.

If as President Eliot says, " The library is the soul of the university", surely it is as much the seat of the Theological seminary, and one who wished advanced work in theology with the advantages of many libraries at his disposal, could scarcely find in this country a better place for study than Chicago.
